WE NOMINATE

Richard Howard Sullivan, a founding officer of the ever-growing Educational Testing Service and a Princetonian for the past decade, who this summer is exchanging the air-conditioned calm of a nationwide organization for the headaches offered by one of the most challenging assignments in American education—the presidency of tiny but volatile Reed College in Portland, Oregon. In becoming the tenth president of a 45-year old, coeducational institution with an enrollment of some 650, Sullivan is assuming direction of a college that apparently delights in paradoxes. For instance, since World War II Reed has “run through” four chief executives but since its founding has also succeeded in producing one Rhodes Scholar for every 79 men it graduates, a measure of achievement unmatched in the more conservative Ivy League.

The leap from 20 Nassau Street to the West Coast caps a period in which the 38-year old Sullivan, a native of Arcanum, Ohio, has played a conspicuous role in the development of a non-profit, non-stock corporation now distributing more than 6,000,000 tests annually and administering testing programs in 85 foreign countries. When he established his home here in 1946 following four years of World War II naval duty, he was associated with the College Entrance Examination Board. Early in 1949, shortly after ETS had been brought into being with the merger of the testing programs of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, the “College Board” and the American Council on Education, he was advanced to the post of Executive Vice-President and Treasurer.

It is quite likely that Sullivan (whose parents before their marriage constituted the entire faculty of a small Ohio high school) is one of the country's best-informed men in matters educational. As the officer in charge of ETS' operations, he has kept in touch with educational leaders on all levels, has recommended areas of service for ETS and has analyzed the influences of its activities on education. Among his interests have been continuing investigations of methods of determining the intellectual potential of the onrushing tidal wave of students, for, while educators everywhere talk about the millions to be educated, no one can be certain of the relationship between numbers and degrees of ability.

Sullivan's feeling for educational administration, a sphere of endeavor comparable to international diplomacy, is reflected in a recently published article advocating “open covenants openly arrived at” and based upon a Carnegie Corporation study he made of “Administrative-Faculty Relationships” on 18 campuses. A member of Princeton Township's Board of Education and of the Official Board of the Princeton Methodist Church, Sullivan gained his initial administrative experience at Harvard where before World War II he served as Assistant Dean. He had been one of the 10 National Scholars in the Harvard Class of 1939 and had demonstrated his own potential by combining magna cum laude honors in his studies with the presidency of the Student Council and varsity basketball.

For his contributions to the general understanding of scientific educational measurement; for insisting that “open minds and a brave reliance upon free discussion” are essential to the well-being of American education; for accepting the kind of a challenge that possibly comes to an educator once in a lifetime; he is Town Topics' nominee for

DILEMMA'S END

Eleventh-Hour Success. Though little hope was held for the project as late as last weekend, a second, 50-unit low-rent housing development for Princeton was given a dramatic eleventh-hour approval on Monday. The Public Housing Administration went to bat in Mickey Mantle style, saving the badly-needed units for the Borough just 24 hours before the PHA act of 1937 expired.

Approval by the federal agency will enable the Princeton Housing Authority to continue with plans for another Hageman Home-type project, using funds which will be provided under the now-expired act. Bruce French, executive director of the local housing group, signed and submitted all necessary documents, thus contracting for an advance loan, but the amount will not be made known immediately.

Next step, according to Mr. French, will be a three-way meeting with the Borough Council and Borough Planning Board to obtain zoning variances and set a site for the project, probably in the John Street-Lytte Street area. "We will do our best to be ready with all facts and figures in time for the Council's August 14 session," a Housing Authority spokesman assured.

At the forthcoming get-together, Borough officials will attempt to agree on new homes that will fit into Princeton's so-called "master plan" of development. The 50 units will vary from one-bedroom to four-bedroom apartments and will accommodate some 175 persons.

Mr. French's office pointed out that much of the near-future federal action will depend largely on the type of structures to be built and other technical details. Providing they can be worked out as swiftly as the preliminary plans were handled, Princeton and Washington probably will be able to reach a federal-support dollar figure within the coming month.

In commenting on the successful swift completion of preliminary efforts, Housing Authority representatives lauded the cooperation of the PHA office in New York, which offered vital information in a hurry and paved the way for last-minute submission of the preliminary project there. As it turned out, the Princeton Housing Authority — also in Mickey Mantle style — struck right on schedule.

POLITICAL SCRAMBLE

Mount for Wood. The remaining Republican members of the Township Committee last week appointed John S. Mount of Magnolia Lane to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Dr. Richard H. Wood, the lone Democrat.

Mr. Mount will fill out the term which lasts through this year. With James G. Campbell Jr., appointed to the committee in June, he is a GOP candidate for the office in the fall.

The swift choice of Mr. Mount was entirely expected, but caused some anguish among Township voters who thought the Democrats' minority representation should be preserved (See Mailbox, page 18).

Dr. Wood, who resigned to take a two-year position in Karachi, Pakistan, suggested the name of Ansley J. Coale, his fellow Democratic nominee for November, as his successor.

The Republicans followed normal political practice, however, as they put their second nominee into office. Mr. Mount, whose uncle is mayor of West Windsor Township, as was his father, is a 1946 graduate of Princeton. He is director of magazine research for Gallup and Robinson.

Dr. Wood's resignation brought forward words of praise from the floor and from his fellow committeemen for the effective work he has done in the position.

His resignation leaves Township Democrats searching for two more nominees to join Professor Coale, since Mayor John H. Wallace Jr. will leave office after the September 10 meeting.

The name of John F. McCarthy Jr. is already up for speculation, and this week, rumor had it that Miss Helen Fairbanks of 70 Valley Road might be a Democratic —Continued on Page 2 PANGS OR LOSS OF ENERGY!

There are really only two basic reasons for reducing . . . we need to reduce because overweight is dangerous or there is a desire to reduce so that we may look better, feel better, be more fit.

However, to reduce we must eat less (fewer calories) and when we do eat less we may feel the uncomfortable, almost painful pangs of hunger. We may also become nervous and irritable because of the lack of sufficient vitamins and minerals in a restricted diet. Now, with Kessamin Tablets, Formula #14, and the Kessamin Reducing Plan this can never happen!

SEE WHAT THE KESSAMIN REDUCING PLAN OFFERS!

1. A reducing diet (The Kessamin Booklet) prepared by a physician and a dietician to give best possible diet.
2. Vitamins to prevent deficiencies which cause nervousness, irritability and that tired, worn-out feeling. Also supplemental minerals and iron to help prevent nutritional anemia.
3. Vitamins plus the bulk, Carboxy Methylcellulose, help normal intestinal elimination.
4. The "hunger control factor," Carboxy Methylcellulose, to reduce hunger if taken according to directions.

See your druggist. The complete Kessamin Reducing Plan is in every package of Kessamin Tablets, Formula #14!

candidate, Miss Fairbanks is a staff member at Princeton Library. Should she run, she would be the first of her sex to seek the office in the Township. Women have been candidates for Borough Council in the post-war era, but the last to be elected was Mrs. Bradford B. Locke, who served in the late 1930's.

As for the Republicans, an official announcement of their third candidate is expected next week. The nominee will presumably get Mayor Wallace's spot on the committee by appointment in September.

While the committee is undergoing its 60% changeover in personnel prior to elections, the Township School Board is also losing two members. (See story on Page 8.)

HOW TO HOWL

There'll be some lively doings around Township Hall later this year when the lists of property re-assessments are posted. The election to re-evaluate was made at last week's Township Committee meeting and the means of redress were outlined at the time.

Taxpayers who feel an error has been made in their case will have an opportunity to discuss the matter with the appraisers within seven working days after the list is posted.

There will also be an open

STRANGE WEATHER

July went into the records with some rather brisk conditions that smacked of fall weather and hardly seemed a bit like the customary Princeton July.

No one knows what storms and soaring temperatures August may bring, but it's official that July, 1956, was the coolest since 1914. The average temperature was 72.7 degrees, 2.6 below normal for the month.

Even stranger: although it rained on 23 out of 31 days, total precipitation was more than half an inch below normal.

There was only one hard storm (on the 21st) and rainfall for the month amounted to only 3.51 inches. More than enough for the disappointed beach-bound, though.

PERSONALITIES

Frederick E. Hillard, 218-A Marshall Street, research assistant in the Guggenheim Jet Propulsion Center at Forrestal Research Center, who, at a reunion of the First Marine Division in New York this weekend, will be presented in recognition of the recipient's gallantry while leading a detachment of England's "Black Watch" out of ambush by the Red Chinese in Korea in November, 1952, a month before he earned America's Navy Cross.

Warren G. Findley, 172 Cedar Lane, director of evaluation and advisory services for Educational Testing Service, will leave Princeton to become assistant superintendent of pupil Personnel Services in Atlantic, Ga., where the public education program is being subjected to a sweeping revision. (See Story, Page 13.)

ROUNDUP

Public schools (and all private institutions) will open for business a bit later this year. . . Instead of the near-traditional "Wednesday after Labor Day" school bell, classes will begin on Monday, September 10. . . Speaking of schools, following state approval of the Mason School as a non-profit institution (expected without a hitch), Princeton Borough will lose $2,100 in annual subsidies which it has been receiving from the University. . . Libbey House, home of the school at 53 Bayard Lane, was sold by the University 10 days ago. . . Most interesting classified of the week: someone needed to do "medieval lettering" (by General Films, now wrapping up the 14th century classic "Everyman").

At a preparatory meeting here of New Jersey Republican delegates headed for the GOP convention, Sen. H. Alexander Smith reaffirmed his support of Richard Nixon as the Republicans' best Vice-Presidential bet and following Sen. Kefauver's withdrawal, predicted a first-ballot Stevenson victory at the fast-approaching Democratic conclave. . . One of Town Topics' advertisers—William Dorman of Rosedale Lockers—offers the timeliest piece of advice this week: "This is a good time to give your moths pneumonia; if you have a locker, just stuff all your woollens in it."

... Incidentally, what's your impression of Princeton in summer, 1956? . . . Eight men-and-women-on-the-street give their impressions in answering Question of the Week on page 12.

The cost of living in New Jersey, led by food prices, is at an all-time high, besting the December '53 record and up 2.2% since April. . . Purchasing value of the Jersey consumer dollar is now 48.7 cents, based on a standard of 100 cents in June '39.

A preliminary plan has been sketched for development of the "Quick Estate" by its new owners, but much will depend on the outcome of a meeting this week with state highway people on the status and location of the crisscrossing Kingsdale Road and the Route 206-U.S. 1 truck by-pass. . . Princeton horse-lovers and horse-fearers will go to court instead of the mutual windows this Friday for the latest results of the storied "bridle path" derby. . . Superior Court Judge Thomas Schettino will be the sole judge at the finish to decide between new homeowners and the Princeton Riding Club. . . Despite a "bruising" 2-1 defeat at the hands (and other animal features) of the "Burro" police, the Princeton Lions Club cleared $175 for special projects as a result of its well-attended, now-annual donkey baseball game.

SHIPWRECK SURVIVORS FLASH TELLTALE SMILES: Three of six Princeton area residents who came out of the Andrea Doria-Stockholm ordeal alive—Mrs. Domenica Clallella, her daughter, Mary Teresa, and the latter's husband, Anselmo Costantini—show how glad they are to be safe at home. For their report on the great sea tragedy and news of the other involved Princetonians, see below.

Topics of the Town

Princetonians in Sea Saga. One of the world's top stories of the week—yes, of the year—ends happily for six Princeton area residents as they arrived home safely after enduring the tragic Andrea Doria-Stockholm sea collision. They were not happy to lose most of the possessions they carried with them, nor were they happy that the incredible collision occurred, but they were indeed glad to touch dry land again and be reunited with loved ones.

Princeton's participation in the great sea story ran the gamut of pathos and joy. There were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Levy, 78 Harrison Street, a young couple honeymooning aboard the Andrea Doria. There were Mr. and Mrs. Anselmo Costantini, Washington Road, Rocky Hill, another young couple wondering about the success of their important summer trip to Italy. There was Mrs. Domenica Clallella, mother of Mrs. Costantini, anxious to see her husband again, and there was Corrado Ciccone, son-in-law of Mrs. Ralph L. Nini, 17 Henry Street, coming to America to join his bride of nine months, the former Miss Olga Nini.

Though headed for the same destination, the Levys were not aware of the Costantinis, nor were any of them cognizant of the presence of Mr. Ciccone. Yet, all were aboard the same luxurious ocean liner—the "unsinkable" Andrea Doria—and all were enjoying the final evening of a smooth voyage.

Mr. and Mrs. Levy, dancing in the first-class lounge, probably were joking about their recent honeymoon auto accident near their wedding city of Milan, a wet-curve crash that ruined a car while sparing them. (Later, after the more significant mishap, Mrs. Levy was overheard commenting, "Married life with Joe will be an exciting experience.")

Mr. and Mrs. Costantini, talking with friends in the tourist-class lounge, probably were discussing their two-year "red tape" struggle with immigration authorities — a still-unsuccessful struggle that took them to Italy in an effort to bring Mr. Costantini's family to the United States.

Mrs. Clallella, asleep in her portside tourist cabin (well removed from the point of eventual impact), probably was dreaming of her first trip to Italy in 35 years—"a wonderful visit" — or perhaps of her fine home in Rocky Hill. Mr. Ciccone, another —Continued on Page 4 tourist-class passenger, probably was thinking of the pending reunion with his wife, who came ahead to Princeton to prepare things for the new American, or perhaps of the difficulty he might experience in learning to speak English.

Expensive Jewels Saved. When the terrific collision jured the sea-going world just a week ago, Joseph Levy, a fellowship chemist at the Textile Research Institute here, and his bride, Susan, daughter of a noted Argentine industrialist, were as startled as everyone else on the ill-fated Andrea Doria. Later, they blessed the fact that they had switched accommodations from badly damaged cabin 50 to be on the ship's "sunny side." For the moment, they remembered the value of Mrs. Levy's jewels—in their "sunny side" cabin—and separated so Mr. Levy could rescue them.

The Levys remained separated until their heartwarming reunion in New York a seemingly endless day later. Mrs. Levy, minus several trunks and many suitcases, was brought to safety in a military craft, waved aboard early in the evacuation proceedings by her husband. The latter, after waiting for one of the last lifeboats and escaping only an hour before the Andrea Doria went to her grave, arrived on the injured Stockholm, complete with jewels and passports and the memory of a tear-saving sojourn with actress Ruth Roman's young son.

At the time of the highly controversial collision, Mrs. Costantini, a hairdresser with Chantrey Beauty Salon here, and Mr. Costantini, a worker with Nelson's Glass Shop, though immediately of Mrs. Ciarella, asleep below, Mrs. Costantini, missed her way along the well-lighted passageway to their room—who was out of bed, dressed and ready to go—while Mr. Costantini, member of a seafaring family, sought to determine the extent of damage to the great liner.

Finally back together again on the elevated portside of the tourist deck, Mrs. Costantini and her mother-in-law on ropes and canvas for tortuous minutes as her husband worked his way down the ship's ladder to the crew's deck. "There I saw members of the crew putting on lifejackets and climbing into lifeboats," Mr. Costantini related. "I knew then that the ship was destined to sink. Unable to climb back to my family, I shouted to them concerning the danger and made my way to a lifeboat."

The Message Was Clear, "I knew what my husband meant, though he didn't say much for fear of panicking the immigrants crowded near us," Mrs. Costantini recalled. "Slowly—foot by foot, minute by minute—mother and I crawled to the bow of the ship and around to the starboard side—the only place lifeboats could be launched. There was no one giving instructions, so we did the only thing we thought was best—we did 50 feet down a rope into a lifeboat."

Mrs. Costantini and her mother were transported to safety by the Ile de France with Mr. Costantini was brought to New York by the Stockholm. They found themselves without any of their baggage or the colored pictures they shot so carefully in Italy or the many gifts for their friends, but they were not without vivid memories, especially memories of the happiness of their reunion in New York.

Still nervous and trying to recover from the shock of the sea tragedy, Mr. Ciccone, an electrician, told relatives of his dreadful experience—in Italian, of course—but informed reporters only that he reached the United States aboard the Stockholm, after transfer from the Andrea Doria. Just as the Levys were attempting to replace their lost belongings on a New York shopping spree, so Mr. Ciccone sought to forget his troubles by way of a shopping trip to Trenton.

A final Princeton footnote to the dramatic story was added by J. Richardson Dilworth, 141 Hodge Road, who reported happily—along with all newspapers and news services—that his uncle and aunt, Philadelphia Mayor Richardson Dilworth and Mrs. Dilworth, also made their way off the stricken Andrea Doria. Mrs. Dilworth, sporting the most photographed black eye since Bobo Glon's last beating, was conveyed to New York on the Ile de France, along with her husband.

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS

There's an absorbing play on at Murray Theatre this week; The University Players are presenting "The Father" by August Strindberg, a high tension drama that's not easy, but very interesting.

The play is a momentous undertaking, and even with the quality of the "outside help" being used in production, "The Father" is a great University Players achievement, under the week-to-week set-up.

The "outside help" consists of a C. Wood, well-known Pat Sturshak and director John Capis (who will also stage the concluding Shakespeare).

The gentlemen known only as G. Wood gives what is undoubtedly a brilliant performance as the Captain and title role figure. The role is as complicated and difficult as any ever written, and G. Wood is immensely powerful.

A half dozen times at least reservations about his performance were taking shape in this corner, but without fail, C. Wood dismissed them with a stunning piece of work. The reservations had to do with vocal quality or reading, but the sheer power of his presence and enormous flexibility made it a lot more important. More later.

Pat Sturshak, suffering from her first night nerves, blew some lines and a fair amount of timing, but she was genuinely striking as the woman who brings about the destruction of her husband.

Virtually nothing else failed Mr. Sturshak beyond those nerves. Her physical impact was shattering and her conception good. The performance in reality was excellent and tonight's performance might find it flawless.

Mr. Capis, of course, deserves enormous credit for such a good production of "The Father." It ought to be impossible for mid-season, but you wouldn't know that if you just decided on Tuesday's performance. G. Wood, of course, acted beyond the director's requirements, but the latter was the man who provided the integration.

In the supporting roles, Joe Bird and young Kathy Kelly handled themselves very well. Mario Siletti coasted on his professional ability in playing the doctor; having viewed his work for a couple of years, it might have been just an average night for him.

Mary Gonzalez did a very fine job as Margaret, the nurse-servant; it was good to see her throw herself into a difficult position. Her performance was perfectly fine, and the issue about her part lies really in the dramatist's hands.

Let's assume that the people who care will want to see this famous and largely un-produced classic. Beyond theatrical excitement, what does it mean to the rest of us?

"The Father" must have been as shocking 60 years ago as a nude statue of Claire Booth Luce. It isn't any more, but what does it mean in the world of Sigmund Freud and apostles of Alfred Adler?

Can "The Father" really rank as a major work of the 20th century? No one knows, and just as well, no one knows the fate of other "captured plays." Anti-feminism is countered by a plea against wasteful manhood.

"The Secret Concubine"

Therese Hayden will direct "The Secret Concubine" by Aldrich Morris as the second production of the new Princeton-oriented theatre group, of which Karl M. Light is a major figure. Mr. Morris wrote "Carefree Tree", acclaimed by the critics last season at the Phoenix Theatre.

Mr. Light is scheduled for the title role of Shakespeare's Richard II, opening August 27 in Murray Theatre. "The Secret Concubine" will be the second offering of the new group's pre-off-Broadway season. Further details will be available next week.

Actually, Strindberg is directing only certain parts of "The Father." There is a real, unsolved decision in the play as it must be viewed today.

"The Father" is a great relic; absorbing drama, but not related to today's issues. G. Wood is superb and his fellow actors do a fine job, but is the important shock all gone?

French Faree Next "Ring Round the Moon" by Jean Anouilh was chosen last week by the University Players for their seventh production and is now in rehearsal for next week's opening on Tuesday, August 7. Philip Minor, long a figure in University Players and director of the highly amusing "Bedtime Story" by Sean O'Casey a week ago, will direct the gay French offering.

Visitors to the London production of "Ring Round the Moon" as translated by Christopher Fry were delighted by the wit, humor and French farcical flavor of the play. Gilbert Miller brought it to the Martin Beck Theatre in 1950 where it was acclaimed by critics as another "Madwoman of Chail- lot" and ran for a number of performances.

The Anouilh comedy is a flamboyant invention of mischief and fun. Butlers, identical twins, dancers, an ingenue, and a wheel-chair-bound mistress of the chateau become involved in a de- lightfully intricate plot after the French fashion.

Lelia Barry has been cast as the charming young lady who falls in love with the wrong twin, resulting in the exposure of se- cret love affairs and sundry other hectic developments. George Segal will double up as both the twins, while Georgine Hall will play the mistress of the chateau.

The Players are also well into preparations for the final week of the season. They will present Shakespeare's "As You Like It" with original music and elaborate costumes, settings and lighting. John Capra, director of the current production, "The Father" will stage the Shakespearean comedy. Peggy Allison will re- turn to the Shakespearean role as Rosalind, while Philip Minor will co-star.

BUCKS COUNTY PLAYHOUSE
Hermione Gingold, the popular English comedienne, is entrenched at the Bucks County Play- house in her intimate revue, "Sticks and Stones". The attrac- tion continues through Saturday, August 11, with Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

Miss Gingold's contributions in- clude "Queen of Song", a musical account of an aging Australian soprano who is "under, but not down", and her "Music Fair", a take-off on a gawky but corrupt concert hall lecturer.

Singer Mortl Stevens is among those featured while the star is off stage, and her numbers include "Black Widow", in which she relates how she did away with her husbands and at the same time does a satire on the art of the strip tease. Charles Manne does a sketch called "Hanky Pan- ky", on how the handkerchief can be used by present day singers.

The dancers include Jo Milan, Jim Hutchinson, and Edwin Mar- tin, who does a number in which she changes styles in keeping with a succession of hats she wears. Louise Hoff and Jack Fletcher add solo spots and skirts. "Sticks and Stones" has played two previous summer dates, and will continue on tour. Ron Raw- son, producer of the Ivory Tower Playhouse in Spayre Lake, hopes to take Miss Gingold and her company to Broadway in the fall.

THE PLAYHOUSE

The King and I (Aug. 2-7) is for everyone who liked the original Rodgers and Hammerstein musical and/or the music. The screen treatment is fabulously elaborate and colorful, with the film technique used to the fullest. Yul Brynner repeats superbly as the King of Siam and Deborah Kerr is fine as the English school- teacher. A sumptuous sight in CinemaScope 55 and Technicolor.

The Eddy Duchin Story (Aug. 8-14) is notable chiefly for the 20 song hits of 1920-1950 played in the Duchin style by Carmen Ca- vallerio and dubbed for the ex- cellent finger-work of Tyrone Power in the title role. The bio- graphy is a bit more frank than most screen treatments of music celebrities, and the romantic side is slightly more sincere. Also participating are Kim Novak as Duchin's first wife, James Whit- more as his manager, and Whit- more's Victoria Shaw as the se- cond wife, Technician and Cin- emaScope.

It's New to Us

Cool as a Water Lily, Helene Rubinstein and her various competitors are setting out their unguents, lotions and potions for women who want to be cool, beautiful, and eternally young.

We begin with Rubinstein at Thorne's, 168 Nassau. She presents her Beauty Pairs, some of which give you a 50% saving over original prices. There are 10 different pairs, each one "a complete beauty treatment."

They are designed to solve various skin problems, to put sheen into your hair, make-up on your cheeks, and so on. Top price for any pair is $1.75, and the lowest is $1.25.

Rubinstein also has a blackhead kit ($3.55) that consists of a medicated beauty mask, deep cleanser and Water Lily skin lotion. There are 42 treatments in the three preparations.

Coty's Paris Originals are two new lipsticks in black and gold zebra case or black and white case. The gimmick here is that each lipstick will hold a basic stock size refill, for everyone's convenience. Coty also tempts you into the tub by offering a free stick of Correct deodorant with any bath preparation you buy: bath oil, salts, dusting powder, etc.

Yardley comes into the field, not with English Lavender this time, but with Red Roses. The soap is not new, but the bath preparation, a talc, dusting powder, sachet, after-bath freshener in a cool and frosty bottle. Four other Yardley fragrances are available at a 50% saving—$1.87 for any two colognes in the 2-ounce bottle. Dans packages its "spray colognes in atomizers that are capped to prevent evaporation. Good for the traveler. Angouleme has new packaging this year. Spray cologne now comes in a gold bottle, not a white one. Looks like a cocktail shaker.

Bourbon for Smoke - Filled Room. Honoring this presidential year, Beam has put its bourbon in two ceramic decanters. One is an elephant's head and one is a donkey's and if you're a southern democrat who holds the party, you'll have to take your Beam straight from the bottle. Wine and Game has them at 6 Nassau. If this animal-head idea makes you queasy, be reassured: the decanters are not cute. They have been whittled down to a fine abstraction, and in the case of the elephant, could probably pass for a new addition to your ceramic collection. Price for the fifth: $6.21.

On the theory that people who didn't get married in June will do so in September, Wine & Game pops the cork on some champagne. Non-vintage Bollinger or Mumm's at $6.50 and $5.99 is the fifth ought to do for launching a reception. If you prefer "domestic but good," try Almaden, Swiss Colony or Great Western. The bigger the bottle the bigger the topic. Who can tell. Anyhow, Wine & Game now carries about 15 or 20 half-gallon bottles of various spirits. Used to be only one or two. You can buy gin, vodka or whiskey in the large economy (but not much) size.

Speaking of vodka, Wine & Game has four kinds: the usual Smirnoff, Gilleby and Romanoff, and one called Kulev that may be a sly pun on "Cool off."

Here Come the Bridesmaids. For that wedding that Wins & Game talks about, the nearby French Shop (20 Nassau) has a pastel cloud of fall chiffon bridesmaid dresses. Order them in any of 20 shades of nylon chiffon, almost as many colors in crystolite. (Allow two weeks for delivery.)

In the chiffon you have a choice of four different styles, one with a high net neckline that you can cut down later for formal wear. Most of these are draped and folded artfully so that they are becoming to almost any girl. They have been cast in rich fall colors.

The crisp crystolite gowns have the ruffle that goes along with this matte surfaced taffeta. One style has a jacket for wedding decorum that can be removed for reception festivity.

Hats for fall are buckled style, straight on the head. Look at a kelly green velvet, made with four, square petals hanging from its crown. An olive green hat is a furry brushed felt with veil. A doughnut of black ostrich feathers has a wide-mesh crown. The same wide net serves as center for a circle of black velvet bows. Hats begin at $3.50.

You don't wear black ostrich feathers in the rain, but you can wear a coat and matching hat that will be just as comfortable if the day is cool and dry. These at the 20 Nassau Street store are millium lined, for real insulation. One is pale blue nubbed cloth lined with russet and banded at deep cuff and sailor collar with stripes of russet and gold. Comes in beige, too, with a yellow lining. A navy coat has snowflakes. A black, purple and green checked coat has a partner in navy and red.

Cottons go back-to-campus, or back to a 9-am typewriter. Here is a cotton jersey, junior size and style, done in bright red with black and white snowflakes on it. —Continued on Page 14

HE DROVE 8,000 MILES FOR THIS WELCOME-HOME KISS: Tim Harris of Tiger Bus Line received a hearty hello from his entire family after arriving in Princeton last week with a busload of 24 Princeton Country Day School boys and their leaders. Driver Harris was behind the wheel all the way as the Westward Ho! group covered some 8,000 miles of the United States and Canada in six weeks, visiting four national parks and an untold number of intriguing sights. Reported the bus operator: "There's not much of the country the boys didn't see. They really had a fine trip, and so did I. And the most important thing of all—everybody got back home safe and sound." The Harrises, who live at 500 Prospect Avenue, turned out en masse for the happy occasion. In the welcoming party were (left to right) Dale, Mrs. Betty Jane Harris, Donna Lee and Leigh III. (Town Topics Photo)

Who's a Politician?

Adlai Stevenson ran a poor third in Princeton University's Class of 1922 senior poll in the "Biggest Politician" category. Mr. Stevenson only received eight votes from his classmates, as compared to 124 for Thomas Drummond and nine for Charles Denby.

Today's Democratic presidential hopeful fared better in the "Thinks He Is Biggest Politician" category, where he polled 28 votes, second only to Mr. Drummond's total of 41. Mr. Drummond is today a St. Louis investment banker, while Mr. Denby is an executive with a mining firm.

Mr. Stevenson, who was managing editor of The Daily Princetonian, a member of the Senior Council and an officer of Quadrangle Club, also placed in the balloting for "Biggest Fusser," "Most Likely to Succeed," "Most Typical Princetonian," and "Best All-Around Man Outside of Athletics."

More Township Changes. Not to be outdone by the fast-changing Township Committee, the Township Board of Education took count of its members this week and realized two of the nine will be missing by September's meeting. New jobs in new localities for the pair signaled the way for their pending resignations.

As reported a week ago, Richard H. Sullivan, 308 Western Way, one of the departing members, has been chosen president of Reed College in Portland, Oregon. This week, John K. White, Roper Road, announced that he must give up his Board of Education post due to his transfer to new vocational duties in Allentown, Pa.

Mr. White, assistant director of research and designing with American Houses, Inc., said the company is moving its headquarters from New York City to Allentown.

lentown. He will be leaving Princeton about the end of August, he reported, and will become American Houses' assistant to the president in charge of future development.

Having been elected to a three-year term on the Township Board in February, 1955, Mr. White was made its building committee chairman. For this reason, and because of the building problems facing the Township schools this summer, the committee chairman was asked to postpone his resignation until the last possible date.

Commenting on these problems, Mr. White said he felt that the future growth of Princeton Township and surrounding areas will continue to make great demands on the educational systems of both the Township and Borough. The Township Board took a step in the right direction, he commented, when it extended an invitation to the Borough Board at last month's meeting to hold a combined session for the discussion of mutual problems—the first such invitation in about seven years.

Mr. White noted that he will not be without his own future school problems in Allentown, though he may not join that city's school board right away. Last week, his wife presented him with their second and third children, twin boys.

You never saw so many planes.

We refer, not to the DC-6 but to "Platanus orientalis" - the plane tree.

Forty-nine three-inch caliper plane trees now shade the southern and western frontiers of the Shopping Center and Howe Nurseries, whose experts planted them there, thinks it may be the largest mass planting of trees in this area.

That big, guyed tree by the Acme parking lot is no plane, but a honey locust, 25 years old. Along the western wall between Frederick Harris and Bamberger's Furniture Store, Household Finance and the Dairy Queen, Howe has espaliered eight flowering crab, interplanted with Japanese holly.

Auto Parts Theft Solved. Last fall when a series of minor, but regular thefts of auto parts began in the Princeton area, Princeton police tightened street patrolling operations and waited for something to break. Early last Saturday morning, the break came in the form of a black, two-door Ford sedan, whose tail lights didn't work.

Sergeant Randolph Applegate and Patrolman Frank McGuire noticed the car on Alexander Street at 2:30 a.m. They stopped the Ford and upon investigation found various auto parts in the trunk.

Within a few hours, the auto parts had been linked to those taken off cars parked near the Princeton Junction railroad station. The two boys in the car, Carl A. Reese, 18, of Rocky Hill, and Walter Kochis, 18, of State Road, were arraigned before West Windsor Township Magistrate Raymond Britton Saturday afternoon on a charge of larceny. Sent to Mercer County Jail and released Monday on bail, they are awaiting Grand Jury action.

On subsequent investigation by borough patrolman Richard Panico and James Kopfler, township patrolman Fred Porter and State Police Investigator Robert W. Fisher, several juveniles were implicated in the series of thefts. Lieutenant Frank Bird of the Borough police said that "at least six" were involved. The extent of the activities of the younger boys is still under investigation.

Patrolman Porter disclosed that three juveniles in his district have admitted to "around seven thefts" in the area of Baker Rink and a December, 1955, robbery at the Conover Motor Company on

Humor Misses Fire

Intended humor that is not only far off target but hidden behind the shield of anonymity this week made its way into Princeton through the mails. Princeton alumni received unsigned cards, bordered in a sort of orange-red, with this message:

"We of Harvard congratulate Princeton, but we will not trade our Oppenheimer for your Hiss! The new motto of the Harvard Corporation: Veritas In Parte."

After accusing Harvard of following a policy of "truth in part," the message concludes: "Harvard says: Perjurers — Yes, Fall Birds — Not just yet!"

Chambers Street. He estimated that the value of the stolen articles is in excess of $200.

Lieutenant Bird praised the co-operation between the three police forces in the Princeton area, calling it "a real team job." He reported that the majority of the thefts were in the area of the Princeton Junction railroad station and near Baker Rink.

On some occasions, the thieves opened trunks to pilfer their loot. Articles taken include jackets, ashlights, hubcaps, tires, fender skirts, spotlights and mirrors. Juvenile cases will be referred to Juvenile Referee Howard W. Stepp.

"G-Man" without Portfolio. Almost at a loss for words and full of apologies, Stanley Carlson of Richmond Hill, N. Y., explained in Borough Court this week that he was "very, very sorry" for causing considerable confusion in Princeton last Saturday. Magistrate Paul R. Chesbro appreciated the ex-policeman's explanation, then imposed a disorderly persons fine of $15 and continued to smile at the thought of this sequence of events:

(1) En route to Princeton Junction from New York to visit relatives in Griggstown, Mr. Carlson went to the diner "for lunch—and a few beers" while his wife stayed in her coach seat. Mrs. Carlson got off at the Junction, but Mr. Carlson missed the stop and several others—and wound up in Philadelphia.

(2) "Several" hours and beers later, Mr. Carlson finally reached the Junction and called taxi driver Joe Perone for a ride to the Nassau Tavern. Mr. Perone, in turn, summoned Police Sgt. Raymond Mondone when the visitor refused to pay his cab fare and disappeared in the hotel.

(3) On the sergeant's speedy arrival, Mr. Carlson was taken drinking with guests at a Tavern wedding reception to which he was not invited. "I decided to place him under arrest," Sgt. Mondone related, "when he said, 'I'm the FBI, who the hell are

Legion Cites Town Topics

Princeton Post 76, American Legion, presented a citation to TOWN TOPICS last week as its members gathered at 55 Mercer Street for the annual induction ceremonies of officers of the post and its auxiliary. Presentation was made by Nathaniel J. McKee, post commander, and the citation also bore the signature of William J. Birch, adjutant. It was awarded "for cooperation in publicizing the activities and programs of the American Legion in Princeton and vicinity."

Less intriguing but more serious was the case of James H. Kelly, 87 Leigh Avenue, who paid fines of $55 for leaving the scene of an accident and $25 for careless driving. Noting that the defendant was motoring on a learner's permit only and without a licensed passenger when he jumped a curb, backed into a parked car and drove away without investigating damages, Magistrate Chesbro commented, "You're not a very good record—an accident of this type before you even get your license."

As a result of other traffic action this past week, the following Princeton motorists were assessed: Mrs. Kathleen Blumenthal Brunswick Pike, $15 for speeding, and Mrs. Hija Treumat, 2 Harris Road, $7 for wrong-way driving on a one-way street (reduced by $3 for "your fine cooperation"). The court also was advised that George M. Peck, 16 Patton Avenue, has received a one-year license revocation by the state for careless driving, illegal muffler, stop sign and three speeding offenses.

Kingston Tract Sold. A 25-acre tract of land in South Brunswick township has been bought by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Cook of Kingston. Carl Weagley, president of the Jersey National Bank, plans to build homes in the $35,000 to $50,000 price range.

The tract of land is located at the intersection of Lincoln Highway and Raymond Road. Deed restrictions require that each lot be a minimum of two acres and that the total cost of house and lot be a minimum of $35,000.

Mr. Weagley has been building custom homes in the New Brunswick area for many years. A subdivision plan, providing for 11 lots, has already been approved by the South Brunswick planning board.

By George C. Cook, Princeton attorney, represented his parents in the transaction, while the purchase—Continued on Page 11

No. 3 Outing Saturday, Mercer Engine Company No. 3 will hold its annual outing this Saturday, starting before noon and continuing on into the evening. Raymond N. Grover is general chairman for the traditional affair.

Other committee members are Leland G. Birch, F. K. Bohn, J. J. Davidson, N. B. Davidson, Lawrence L. Duprez, J. R. Hegadorn, W. A. Hussey, Robert F. Mooney, H. J. Wright Jr., Peter B. McCann, L. B. Patterson, George L. Pierre, Clarence H. Rodefled, G. W. Rodefled, William Schannel, Joseph Siemmlie, Charles Tessen, A. V. Van Horn, H. R. Warren and Richard H. Wood.

Target Shoot Prize Collection. Engine Company No. 1 will begin soliciting for prizes this weekend of the annual Target Shoot to be held at Squatters Grove on Labor Day. Bernard Glover is general chairman and John F. Golden heads the prize committee.

Prizes may be taken to the Walter B. Howe office at 94 Nassau Street where they will be displayed in the window until the day of the shoot. Committee members will also be glad to pick up prizes and Mr. Golden may be called at 1927.

Phonetic Typewriter. The acoustics division of RCA Laboratories is working on a phonetic typewriter, which will be able to transmit the spoken word to the typewritten word by a purely mechanical process.

At present, only ten words have been tried out on the machine which is run by an electronic brain. The typewriter responded with 90% accuracy to the first series employed: "I can see you type this now," and with 98% accuracy to various combinations of the words, "R.C.A., I can, you read, it, so, sir."

Complete details on the project will be released later this month. One official working on the machine said, "It's got a long way to go, but the Wright brothers' airplane didn't fly more than 100 feet the first time, either."

Scott is Picnic Chairman. Thomas Scott of the R.D. 1 has been selected chairman of the Town Club picnic, to be held this Thursday at 6 at Squatter's Picnic Grove, Quaker Bridge Road. The picnic will be held next Wednesday in case of rain.

Members and guests of the Town Club will attend, and those seeking information about the club are also invited. Entertainment, social and square dancing will supplement the picnic supper.

Contests at Playgrounds. Several contests and tournaments have highlighted activities at the Princeton playgrounds. The High School held three contests, a sand building contest, a checkers tournament and a doll show. Allison Allieri won the sand building event, while Robert Boccantuso and Albert Pietrinferno placed second and third, respectively. John DalleFozze won the checkers tournament with Russell Petrone, Victor Petrone and Richard Lappan also placing. First-place ribbon winners in the doll show were Mary Beth Darby, Betsy Morehouse and Pat Fennec.

Meeting on Cancer Research

Thirteen members of a new, 15-man anti-cancer group—The Scientific Advisory Council of the American Cancer Society—will come to Princeton this weekend to hold their first meeting Saturday and Sunday at the Princeton Inn. Their all-important purpose: To speed up research in the war against cancer.

Converging on Princeton from all parts of the country, the top-ranked scientists will represent each of the leading fields (i.e., hormones) in the cancer war. They will seek different avenues of attack on cancer and will recommend that the ACS earmark funds for phases of research which they believe will do the most good in the immediate future.

Dr. Harry Weaver, director of research for the ACS, will head the council in its sessions here. Among the convening representatives will be men of the calibre of Dr. Thomas Francis of the University of Michigan, who was responsible for evaluating the Salk anti-polio vaccine.

chis; second place, Diane Livingstone, Paul Wood, Marilyn and Catherine Esposito; third place, Susan Zorochin, Katherine Hult and Victoria Stachowicz.

Cynthia Stevens, Cynthia White and Marty Hines won prizes in the costume show at the Witherspoon playground. Peter Webber won a "beat the clock" contest, followed by Jeffrey and Keltie Sears. The best moulded objects were turned out by Raymond Fisher, Daniel Brown and Cynthia White.

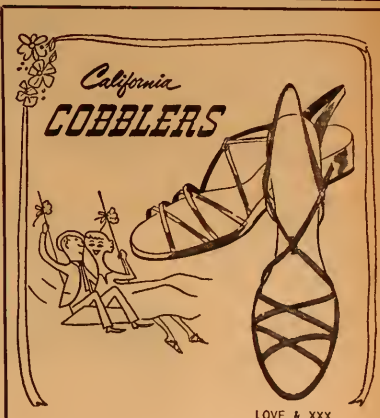

A pet show at the Harrison Street playground saw blue ribbons to Nancy Rollings, Penelope Plum, Celia Stodia, Karen Wright and Linda Vacauley; red ribbons to Ann Ferrara, Claudia Dupre, Linda Almgren, Peggy and Martin Finley, Susan Bill, Robert Groo and Jill Wright; white ribbons to Sandy Donald, Alfred Mason and Richard DeSaumier.

SHE AIN'T WHAT SHE USED TO BE: Converging on a busy Nassau Street corner—busy despite the fact that mid-summer has arrived—Richard W. Colman (left), Patrolman Arthur F. Gallant and Neilson Poe compare opinions and agree that Princeton isn't the same place in summertime, 1956, as she was in the past. But they also agree that there's no place like Princeton to live—even in the summer. For more on this timely subject, see Question of the Week below. (Alan Richards Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: What is your impression of Princeton in summertime—especially this summer of 1956?

Location: Nassau Street.

Richard W. Colman, 2 Campbellton Circle, Princeton University coach and Borough Councilman: I feel it has a very different atmosphere. As long as it isn't brutally hot—and it hasn't been this summer—I think Princeton is delightful. A walk through the campus in summertime, for example, is a real experience because its character is so different. It's quiet—not unlike a big private park.

Arthur F. Gallant, 9 Erdman Avenue, Borough policeman: At one time, Princeton was not nearly as busy as it is now in the summertime. The scenery is just as terrific as ever, but now we have serious traffic and parking problems that used to be reserved for the seasons other than summer. It's still quieter than winter—for everyone but the police force. I will say, though, that it's much pleasanter working in these light-air summer uniforms.

Neilson Poe, 6 Mercer Street, former Princeton University football player and long-time football coach: Princeton has changed a great deal, not only in the summer but during the whole year. Since World War II, Princeton has taken on a new face. There are many more people staying around Princeton for at least part of the summer than used to. The big exodus seems to be restricted to the month of August. I think booming business rather than air-conditioning is the big factor in the stay-at-home trend. People spending money for air-conditioning this year wasted their money.

Ralph E. Papa, 55 Clearview Drive, Princeton YMCA, health director: Just in the last three years, I have noticed a terrific increase in people staying in town during the summer. Some of the reasons, of course, are obvious: We have a lot more facilities for children here now, there's too much traffic on the roads—especially to the shore on weekends—and Princeton business has shown tremendous growth. There's more business going on because more people are in town, and there are more people in town because there's more business for them to handle. The two factors interrelate.

Mrs. Harry J. Gidycz, Jamesburg, restaurateur: I bring my children here for summer studies every day and I just love to come to Princeton. It's really a pleasant place—even the policemen seem pleasanter than anywhere else. Of course, it's certainly much busier this summer than ever before. You can see it in the large amount of building going on and in the increased activity at the Shopping Center.

Orren Jack Turner Jr., 39 Hamilton Avenue, photographer: I think it's very interesting to notice how Princeton has grown as a summer town in the past five years. We used to roll up the sidewalk in June, and now we have a fairly active town all summer long. In fact, I would say Princeton is nearly a four-season town now. The town has simply expanded beyond a strictly small-college community.

Robert W. Sinkler, 307 Witherspoon Street, playground director: Princeton in summertime has changed—at least 40%. It's due either to the influx of new people or the fact that fewer people are going away, or a combination of both. New businesses, new research organizations and increased construction work have brought the new people in. And much of the work, naturally, is preparatory work for the coming fall influx.

Matthew T. Gels, 26 College Road, retired Princeton University track coach: I like it! Princeton is a wonderful place to live in the summer, and there's plenty of activity around. It's no longer a dead town when the students go away. Other people move in the minute they're gone. Princeton seems a lot cooler this summer than usual; it's hot in Trenton at times, but still fine here. Big-city residents enjoy moving out to the summer atmosphere here. We're within an hour of the shore as opposed to their day's trip from New York City.

Findley Leaving ETS. "A sweeping re-organization of the whole school system" in Atlanta, Ga., will lure Warren G. Findley, 172 Cedar Lane, from Princeton to the southern city, where he has accepted a post as assistant superintendent of pupil personnel services. Mr. Findley, director of evaluation and advisory services with Educational Testing Service, said he will depart by week's end. Formerly director of test development at ETS, Mr. Findley will leave behind a long list of community as well as business accomplishments, registered since he joined the ETS staff eight years ago. His ties with Princeton will not be completely broken, however, since he will maintain a consultant relationship with ETS.

The move south, where Mr. Findley is to face the challenge of a city of 500,000 persons revamping its public educational program in line with a recent survey, will not take the well-known Princetonian into "new" territory. Prior to his switch to ETS in 1948, he spent two years as chief of the evaluation branch of the Air University, Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama, and, before that, he was a professor at the University of Alabama. Mr. Findley has been connected with education throughout his professional career. After earning his bachelor's degree at Princeton in 1927 and obtaining both his M.A. and doctorate at Columbia, he took a four-year instructorship in measurement and research at Teachers College, Columbia, and later devoted eight years as assistant director of examinations and testing for the New York state education system.

During his Princeton residence, Mr. Findley served on the board of directors of the Council of Community Services, became an elder of the First Presbyterian Church and was active in the Democratic Party, running unsuccessfully for a berth on the GOP-dominated Township Committee last fall. One of his daughters just completed seventh grade at Valley Road School, while the other will be a senior at Goucher College this year.

Professionally, the ETS executive served as president of the National Council on Measurements Used in Education in 1953-54 and as president of the New Jersey Psychological Association in 1954-55. He is currently a member of the Council of Representatives of the American Psychological Association, the governing body of that organization.

With This Rock. Since the days of the Roman Coliseum, Italians have been stone-workers. But the craft is dying out now and the men who are building the new St. Paul's church are part of a passing tradition.

The dress has three-quarter sleeves, and round neck trimmed with narrow black rick-rack. It comes in navy, too.
Here's a two-piecer in dark calico. Its skirt is a circle, its little jacket is a tight column. The bottom edge of the jacket has a row of stiff black ball fringe, repeated at the round neckline. Back to the one-piecers, we find a black and white flecked cotton knit with two patch pockets and rick-rack trimming. These jerseys are washable, by the way.
Woven cotton fabric, printed like tie silk, has been used for a $12.95 shirtwaist dress, straight as a secretary's pencil. Another dark cotton, in ruby red or granite grey, has three-quarter sleeves, a round collar, black belt and little self-fabric buttons.

Wrap and Woof. Hand-woven wools and cottons from West Germany and Guatemala are ready at Clayton's on Palmer Square, for the home sewer. These brightly patterned fabrics are cut in skirt lengths and Clayton's displays them in the blouse and sweater section, not with the yard goods.

German wools, $14.95 for the length, come in many colors, like a vibrant red with one-inch black bands that look like lace. There is a deep chocolate brown with red and yellow peasant design, and a black that has quarter-inch horizontal lines, widely spaced, in yellow, red, green and blue. A pleasant change from the broad, deep, complex patterns of the other samples.

The Guatemalan skirt lengths are all in cotton, and their various patterns and color combinations are probably better known than the German, because Guatemalan skirts have been in North American shops for some years. The $8.95 price tag is a nod to the budget.

You'll find, in this Central America collection, a plain mid open blue, cocoa with appropriately matching design and a brilliant violet with white.

For summer, you can wear with your skirt a scoop necked blouse in white, peach, pink, blue or yellow for $2.95. The peach is a new shade—or a revival of an old one—and you'll find it repeated in the deeper tone of a new cashmere cardigan that we'll describe in a later column.

The eight grey-haired men now chipping away at the Mount Airy granite have brought their craftsmanship to Princeton before. All of them worked on Firestone Library, commuting from Philadelphia every day just as they do now.

There are stone-workers in Princeton, but they are all retired veterans of the trade, and so the St. Paul's contractor, John McShain, has to bring in his stone men from outside.

All are Italians who learned their trade in Italy as young apprentices, and Italian is the language they still speak.

In the old days, a stone mason taught his craft to his son, just as his father had taught it to him. Why aren't there many young stone masons today? Only one apprentice works at St. Paul's.

"The work's too hard," says Rudolf Fiori, one of the McShain foremen. "A young kid, old enough to be an apprentice—he doesn't want to do all that hard work. It pays $3.85 an hour, but it's hard, real hard."

Protected from sun and weather, the masons work with hammer and chisel under an improvised canopy at the corner of Moore and Nassau. But the chipping, measuring, chipping, hewing the granite block to a precise inch, squaring it off to a precise right angle, this is only part of the work. A mason must also lay the stone in place, plumb straight in its mortar.

This may involve a casual trip to the top of scaffolding 40 feet off the ground, and, after a month or so, up the 80-foot St. Paul's tower. But these men have been at their craft for almost half a century and their muscles and nerves are as hard as the granite.

Where will they go when they leave Princeton? Not much stone —Continued on Page 15

The New Jersey Poll NEW JERSEY REPUBLICAN IN FALL ELECTION? MOST VOTERS SAY IT WILL BE

Who do rank and file voters in the Garden State feel will carry New Jersey in the Presidential election this November—the Republican or the Democratic Party?

Results of the latest statewide survey by the New Jersey Poll—before either the Republican or the Democratic Presidential candidate is known—show that three out of every five of the state's voters foresee a Republican victory in New Jersey this November. About three in ten of the state's voters think the Democrats will carry the state.

In other words, those who foresee a Republican victory in November's coming Presidential election outnumber by a margin of two to one those who think the Democrats will win. These were the findings when the New Jersey Poll put the following question to a representative cross-section of the state's voters: "Regardless of your own personal preference, who do you think will win the Presidential election this year in New Jersey—the Democrats or the Republicans?"

Republicans	60%
Democrats	23%
Will be close	1
No opinion	10

Perhaps the most interesting vote in today's survey is that four out of every five Republicans interviewed in the survey are of the opinion that the GOP will win in November; whereas only one out of every two Democrats feel that their party's candidate will carry New Jersey in the coming Presidential election.

Here's how rank and file Republicans feel about the winner in New Jersey this November:

Republicans	81%
Democrats	11
Will be close	1
No opinion	7

And here's how regular members of the Democratic Party feel about the outcome next November:

Republicans	49%
Democrats	35
Will be close	15
No opinion	1

Today's survey results underline what has in the past been an all-important factor in the political situation, the overconfidence of the Republican Party.

Bettes to Leave Rosedale Market. Russell M. Bettes, manager of the Rosedale Garden Market on Alexander Street, has accepted a position as landscape designer for the Howe Nurseries of Pennington. Mr. Bettes is expecting to complete arrangements this week whereby ownership of the Rosedale Market will shift to two employees of the firm. Meanwhile, business will continue without interruption.

A resident of Rollingmead Road, Mr. Bettes was associated with Princeton Nurseries for a number of years. He has also been an assistant landscape engineer with the New Jersey Highway Department and was one of five who started the landscape course at Rutgers University.

A graduate of the Harvard School of Landscape Architecture, Mr. Bettes has taught adult courses in landscaping at the Princeton Y.M.C.A. and at Montclair High School. One of the prime accomplishments of his career is the work he did in the designing the roof garden and plaza of Rockefeller Center, New York. In this project he worked under Ralph Hancock, noted landscape architect.

PRINCETON ATHLETIC CLUB PACES TRI-COUNTY LOOP: With only two losses in its first 10 games, the Princeton Athletic Club baseball team was well ahead in the Tri-County League standings this week and looked like a tough pennant combination to beat. Included are (left to right, front row) Bill Rudefeld, Robin Foster, Nick Kovalakides, Del White and Alan Ammerman; (left to right, back row) Eddie Meyer, Pete Johnson, Hal Phoe, Manager Charlie Perpetua, Bob Cox and Lee Ammerman; and (on ground) batboy Jerry Perpetua. Four players went into this week's action with averages over the .300 mark—White at .375, Bob Montgomery (not in photo) at .348, Kovalakides at .312 and Alan Ammerman at .308. Football Outlook III. Five years ago, photographers on hand for the first day of football practice at University Field lined up All-American Dick Kozmierz and ten helmets in single wing formation. The graphic picture illustrated the tremendous replacement problem that confronted Princeton's coaching staff: In that bygone era of two platoons, all ten players who had operated with Kaz on offense had graduated and the entire attacking unit had to be rebuilt around him.

When the Orange and Black squad reports next month, a similar picture would tell only part of the story. It would show just three returning linemen (Captain Mike Bowman, who is versatile enough to make a topflight guard this season after the better part of two seasons as a tackle and a freshman year at center; tackles Rusty Melges and Earle Harder).

In the backfield, the only starting player from last year is quarterback John Sapoch.

What the picture would not reveal is the lack of first-level reserve material ready to fill the big gaps. It was there in 1953, because the Tigers had completed the unbeaten 1950 season two and sometimes three deep at every position. This year, it appears to be lacking at several key spots, notably left guard, center, right end, and just about every backfield berth save Sapoch's.

In addition, what Princetonians must become accustomed to this season is the absence for the first time in seven consecutive years of a better than average tailback. Three years of Kazmaier were separated from three years of Royce Flippin by the availability of Bob Unger. The latter was not in a class with them, but he bridged the gap in highly effective fashion as he played a key role in a 6-1 season.

Tailback Tells the Tale. A single-wing football team without a good tailback is like a ball team without a pitcher. It may be strong at virtually every other spot, but if the one player who almost single-handedly determines how good the opposition must be to win is himself somewhat mediocre, the spark is never lighted.

The problem that the coaching staff faces in seeking to develop the two leading candidates for the 1956 tailback assignment is the inexperience of the players in question. Because Sid Pinch and the often-injured Royce Flippin saw a lion's share of the action last fall, Tom Morris and Sargent Karch could be used only sparingly.

Morris handled the ball only 40 times last season, seeing most of his action in the Penn game when Flippin rode the bench and the lighter Pinch could not slam off tackle in the mud. Morris, solidly constructed at 6-1 and 177 pounds, runs well in a broken field and has the essential burst of speed that will make him a threat on the pass-option play.

His aerial acrobatics, however, is in need of improvement. In the post-game session the day after the season's finale with Dartmouth last November, Charlie Caldwell's comment was: "I think we can teach him how to pass." Karch handled the ball only 36 times, ten of them to punt. He, too, will receive constant drilling at Blairstown this fall, and figures at the outset to go as a reserve for Morris. The third ranking tailback is sophomore Alan Manzier (5-9, 175 lbs.) who will probably see consistent action in his first year on the varsity only if Morris or Karch are injured.

Personnel shifts during the three weeks at Blairstown can be anticipated as a routine matter, since this necessary position juggling has for several years no longer been possible during spring practice. One of the first moves to be made will be to bolster the depleted end squad, further weakened by the loss of Charlie Sharp. A guard for two seasons, he had been scheduled to switch to end until an industrial accident last month cost him four fingers on his left hand.

A month before the first football sharp's downfield, this is Princeton's position run-down for 1956:

Ends: Hopes are high that 6-2 Mike Stewart (whose home is on Westcott Road) will have a top-flight year. Underweight from the stress of a summer's training with the Navy when he reported for practice a year ago, he soon was hobbled with a bad ankle and did not reach his best form until November. Don MacElwee (6-4) will alternate with Stewart, while 6-2 Charlie Disbrow, a reserve last season, will also see action on the left side of the line.

The right side is in need of strengthening, with senior Bob Kent (6-3), a letterman but third on the depth chart a year ago, now the top choice. Junior Jim Yatuska (also 6-3) will spell him, with a replacement needed for Charlie Sharp.

Sports In Princeton

Tackles: Rusty Melges (215 lbs.) and Earle Harder (200 lbs.), two thoroughly experienced seniors, are the choice as starters. Sophomore Gene Forcione (207) is rated one of the top members of his class to come up to the varsity, and will alternate with Melges. Bob Casciola (210) who won his letter as a sophomore last fall, is ranked just behind Harder. Steve Ball (205), a 1955 reserve, and sophomore Ed Lasater (195) should also be in the picture.

Guard: Captain Mike Bowman will be particularly helpful in bolstering a spot that has been a chronic problem for the Tigers since the early years of the decade. Fast for his size (220 lbs.), he figures heavily in the blocking pattern and will also make thrusts through the center of the Princeton line unappealing to many an opposing back.

Bowman will pair with Dave Grubb (186), while letterman Don Mayer (185) is ready to spell the Tiger captain and sophomore Paul Warwick (205) will lend unusual depth to this position. Another promising sophomore, 25-year old Bob Rock (210), a Navy veteran, and Charlie Krick (205), likewise in his first year on the varsity, give the Tigers much more in the way of big, promising material than they have had in these two positions since 1951.

Center: Another problem spot for the Tigers. Spike Ball is figured to be capable of holding down the starting assignment, even though he is only 5-9 and 180 pounds. Hopes are that Paul Nystrom (180) and John Hunt (210), reserves who saw little action last year, will develop.

Wingback: The Tigers are green here, too although belief is that senior Bill Danforth (187 lbs.) will fulfill the promise he showed as a sophomore and do a capable job as the starter in this important position. There was thought for a time last September that he might oust Bill Agnew from the first-string assignment, but the latter rose to the challenge and had a particularly fine year. Reserves Bob Bryer (168) and Ron Nelson (175) are Danforth's replacements, with a shot to bolster the position a likelihood.

Quarterback: John Sapoch (200 lbs.) ended his sophomore year last fall as one of the top blocking backs and defensive players in the east. He'll be as close to an iron man this season as the Tigers will have, getting a breather when needed from sophomore Gene Locks (170) and junior Garry Thrasher (200).

Fullback: Although ranked third on the depth chart today because he has yet to play varsity football, sophomore Fred Tiley (195) may earn the starting assignment before the Rutgers opener on September 29. Tiley can belt the middle of a line in highly-approved fashion, and will block well with Sapoch to shake the Nassau wingbacks and tailbacks. Loose, Juniors Wayne Reagan, a versatile 175-pounder, and Lee Weber (175) will battle Tiley for honors as the number three back.

Tailback: As sketched above, what happens at this position will tell much of the story of the season's success. Unfortunately for the Tigers, however, there are enough question marks at other key spots so that even if Morris and/or Karch develop unexpectedly well, a standout season is by no means assured.

Finally, in addition to the need for capable players at certain starting positions, there is little depth apparent. The coming season may well be what sports publicity directors like to call a "building year—" the implication being that the team may be a full 12 months away from attaining its peak.

Tennis Titles Decided: Champions were determined last week in both the women's singles and the mixed doubles as the annual Community Tennis Tournaments neared their season's end. Play began Monday in the men's doubles, final event of the summer.

Mrs. Peggy Bayer won the women's title, defeating Mrs. Simon Hutter in a match that took two days to finish. Darkness halted the first effort to settle matters, with Mrs. Hutter leading, 2-1, in the final set after the first two had been divided.

Next day, however, Mrs. Bayer rallied to take the deciding set, 6-3. She won first, 8-6, and dropped the second, 5-7.

Mrs. Hutter, who took the title in 1949, reached the finals with a victory over Mrs. Louise White. Mrs. Bayer topped Mrs. Alice Tucker in her semi-final match. Twenty women were entered.

Day after the mixed doubles were decided (see picture, page 17), 25 men's doubles teams began play. Dr. H. Y. Tyler and Irwin Vas are defending their title; the latter has already taken the men's crown.

Entries include Michael Kopfliner, Sr. and John Mack; Jack Fems and Dick Hubler; Victor and Sam Payne; Nick Holt and Ed Breitbach; Len Newton and Leon Holland; Stan and Dave Smoyer; Bayard Jordan and Ken Boyd; Charles Widman and Frank Swinnerton; Gene and Tony Dovgala; Jess Willard and Lew Applegate; Russ Backus and

Parlante Politics Flashed

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

I have read with a great deal of interest of the appointment of a Republican to replace Dr. Richard H. Wood, Democrat, on the Township Committee. (Republican John S. Mount was named at last week's Committee meeting).

In view of the fact that the voters had elected a DEMOCRAT to represent them on a five-man Township Committee for a year and a half, it is evident that a desire for a BIPARTISAN Committee was their desire. Dr. Wood represented not only the fine qualities for which he is widely known but also the Democratic Party.

It seems to me only logical and fair that representation of BOTH parties, in accord with the wishes of the people, be taken into account in making new appointments to the Committee.

May I also point out that Dr. Wood had recommended as his replacement Professor Ansley J. Coale, and those whose eminent capabilities there can be no question I should suggest that, when a new appointment comes up on the Township Committee, the wishes of the people — as well as the desire of the Committee — be given some weight. I, for one, suggest that Dr. Wood's recommendation should have been given this small consideration.

Plane Spotters Praised

The following letter to Col. F. J. Darke, Jr., head of Princeton's Civilian Defense Council, has been released for publication through Town Topics.

All Princeton should be grateful to you and your group of airplane spotters who have done so outstanding a job in the Civil Defense program. We realize the discomforts which are attendant upon such a task, and feel that, as our part of the program, and as evidence of our appreciation, we should do something to make things more comfortable for those who give so generously of their

P.A.C. Lead Out Two losses in its last three games have reduced the Princeton Athletic Club's lead in the Tri-County League to the near-vanishing point, and the Tigertown entry must win a clear majority of its seven remaining contests if it is to ward off a closing South Brunswick. A contest against its closest pursuers is set for Brocken Field this Friday night at 6:15, while Princeton Junction will be here Tuesday at the same hour.

Three Princeton errors gave South Brunswick a 5-3 triumph last week as Itho Phocion, who before faultily support. The losers were ouhlt, 9-7, F.L. Rodefeld getting two of the P.A.C. safeties.

Manager Charlie Perpetua blanked Princeton Junction Friday night, 5-0, scattering five hits for his second shutout of the summer. A four-run fourth did the trick, while the double play of Rodefeld was safe on an error, Nick Kovalevich banged a two-base error and Robin Farnsworth, who had been out of the lineup, sealed the verdict with the victors' third double of the inning.

Montgomery Township racked up its first triumph of the season over the P.A.C. Tuesday night with a 5-3 decision. A shaky first inning cost Kovalevich heavily when he hit two, walked two more and then yielded a single to permit three runs to cross the plate. The Somerset County nine raised its margin to 5-0 before the P.A.C. pushed two across in the next round. Bob Montgomery went two for three in the losing cause, while Pete Johnson clouted a solid triple.

Same Old NSC Story. To the surprise of no one who has kept an eye on the softball wheel of fortune in recent years, the Nassau Social Club earned another Community Softball League pennant for its clubhouse with this week in typically stylish fashion NSC completed a strong stretch Tuesday evening by blanking Hopewell, 6-0, behind the two-hit hurling of Huck McCreedy.

Annual playoffs between the loop's four top teams were scheduled to begin this Thursday, but they have been delayed until next Tuesday because third and fourth-place finishers are still unknown. As a result of continuing outcomes in recent weeks, ASCOP, Frazee's and the Sportsman's Club wound up in a deadlock behind runner-up Drake's, necessitating a three-team round-robin this Thursday and Friday.

Weather permitting, the league's four playoff clubs will start best-of-three semi-final series Tuesday night on Goldie and Marquand fields. NSC meeting the No. 4 team and Drake's playing the No. 3 team. A best-of-five series between the semi-final winners, and an All-Star contest will follow during the remaining weeks of August.

NSC showed real championship stuff in coping its pennant-determining tilt, combining outstanding pitching with good clutch hitting. McCreedy allowed no Hopewell runner to reach base until he walked a man in the next sixth inning and boasted a no-hitter until Dick Adams and Al Devlin laced non-productive back-to-back singles after two were out in the seventh. George Sella, Jack Petrone and Burky Cupples ruined the night for Bob Davis, Hopewell pitcher, with RBIs at crucial points.

time and energy for our protection.

Already there is in use at the shelter a hot plate which we loaned so that hot coffee could be prepared on cold nights. This we wish to turn into an outright gift. We have also ordered a small refrigerator which will be installed in the shelter with our compliments as soon as it arrives so that ice water and cold soft drinks can be available during hot weather.

With best wishes to you and to your loyal group of volunteers for whom we have the highest esteem.

How Hageman Rents Are Fixed
To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

In reply to Mrs. Porter's letter concerning the Hageman Homes at Clay Street (July 15-21), the Housing Authority wishes to make the following statement:

Rent rates are not based on the number of appliances a tenant owns but only on the size of the family and its income. Utilities such as gas, heat, and hot water (included in the gross rent) are paid for by the AUTHORITY at $3.50 monthly per unit. The only exception to this is a tenant who presently operates a deep-freezer for which a small extra charge has been added. A family of six or seven in a 4-bedroom apartment may pay less rent than a couple with higher income in a 1-bedroom unit.

All charges are based on regulations from the Public Housing Administration at Washington, D. C., supervised through the New York Regional Office, and administered by the local Authority in Princeton. A review of tenants' income is conducted annually to determine the eligibility of the tenants for continued occupancy; and the rents will go down, up, or remain the same based on these findings. The purpose of low-rent housing is to provide Federal aid to communities where families in the low-income group cannot afford to pay enough to cause private enterprise to build adequate and decent dwellings for their use.

Mrs. Porter states, "Most projects have a play area to help combat delinquency . . ." Juvenile delinquency is also avoided by providing decent, safe, and sanitary homes. This project is located in a densely populated area, within walking distance of facilities and agencies that capably provide recreation facilities.

Every community has restrictions to prevent hardships, inconveniences, or nuisances. The so-called restrictions at Hageman Homes have been nothing more than requests by the Authority for the cooperation of tenants to ensure their comfort, privacy and safety, and to preserve property. Our neighborhoods are as good as the people who live in them and are limited only by the interest and pride they take in their communities—this is also true of a housing project.

It takes cooperation in any neighborhood for people to live together happily, peacefully, and successfully.

DAVID S. LLOYD, Jr., Chairman
Housing Authority of the Borough of Princeton

BIG BEAMS TAKE THEIR PLACES: The curved roof for the new St. Paul's Catholic Church took shape this week as huge laminated wood beams were lowered into place by the big cranes shown above. Beams were carried on oversize trucks from Pennsylvania Railroad siding down Nassau Street to the building site. Each arch contains 440 board feet. (Town Topics Photo)

News of the Churches

New Bells for Kingston. A Carillon Bells instrument has been installed in the Kingston Presbyterian church, and a dedication service for the new bells will be held Sunday at the 11 a. m. service. The bells have been given to the church as a memorial by a family of John Yaros, Sr., of Monmouth Junction.

"The new instrument is like the one at Westminster Choir College and it consists of 25 miniature bell tone generators of bronze bell metal. When these are struck by metal hammers, they produce exact, true bell tones almost inaudible to the human ear. These bell vibrations are then amplified over 100,000 times by special electronic equipment, and the resulting tones have the depth and richness of traditional cast bells.

Kingston's new Carillon Bells produce the tonal equivalent of 2,462 pounds of cast bells. They have a range from G below middle C to G two octaves above middle C. The low G is equal to a cast bell weighing 13,250 pounds. The instrument is played from a keyboard located at the organ console. It has selector switches so that the bells can be heard within the church, from the tower, or from both at the same time.

By means of plastic rolls, the instrument can be set to provide bell music automatically at any given hour, and Kingston Presbyterian plans to have a program of hymns each day at 6 p. m. At the service of dedication this Sunday, the bells will be played by Mrs. James Conover Sr., organist, and her assistant, Mrs. John Radzycki. They will play two duets, "When I Survey the Vondrous Cross" and "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee." As a demonstration, the automatic tower player will play "I Need Thee Every Hour" and "Jesus Calls Us."
